Our project idea

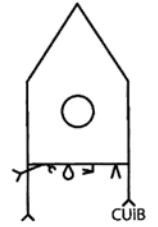

We believe children can understand at an early age the complexity of our world, if you teach it in a positive, sensible, and age-appropriate way.

Based on a playful learning approach, we created CUiB: an educational board-game about climate-change and migration.

The game uses the analogy migrant people – migrant birds to inspire children to reflect on why people migrate and on the broader implications of migration. Also, it helps educators create an inclusive and collaborative learning environment.

Topic

We have expertise in European policy, education, design, and communication

Through our board-game we tackle inequality, social exclusion, and discrimination.
We help educators effectively integrate migrant children in schools and in society.

We search for likeminded partners seeking to employ playful learning tools to help children grow more aware, empathetic and responsible.
