How not to get lost in the maelstrom of information

Massive flows of information have long become commonplace and drag us into a maelstrom of events, sometimes unpredictable, unconscious, and uncontrolled by us. In the age of digital information, no one will be surprised by the huge amount of news that appears every second in various media. However, quantity does not mean QUALITY! The more information, the more difficult it is to separate truth from untruth, and therefore – the easier it is to get hooked on disinformation and manipulation.
